William Wang, Esq.

Associate

William is a litigator at ILS, where he represents clients in a broad range of civil disputes. His practice covers all stages of litigation, including developing case strategy, managing discovery, drafting and arguing motions, participating in settlement negotiations, and preparing matters for trial.

Prior to joining ILS, William practiced civil litigation beginning in 2024, gaining experience handling matters at various stages of the litigation process and developing practical strategies tailored to each client's objectives.

While in law school, William served as a Student Attorney, providing pro bono legal services in intellectual property matters. In that capacity, he conducted legal research, advised individuals and businesses, and assisted with the preparation of legal documents. This experience strengthened his ability to analyze complex legal issues, communicate effectively with clients, and develop practical legal solutions tailored to their needs.
